Marcela Jardón's artistic exploration of landscape transcends the traditional confines of physical scenery. She delves into an expansive interpretation that encompasses both the tangible and intangible realms. Her work is not confined to what the eye can see; it is an intricate tapestry woven from the threads of internal and external experiences. In Jardón's perspective, the landscape serves as a spatio-temporal canvas, where each stroke represents a fragment of memory, each hue a shade of emotion. It is a topographic narrative that charts the contours of sensitivity, vision, and affection. Her landscapes are not static; they are dynamic entities that traverse beyond the physical into emotional, mental, and psychic territories, dissolving the barriers between space and time.
